THE TICKET

The Democratic National Convention named a ticket which would be hard to defeat at any election, and conditions considered, should win in a walk. Woodrow Wilson, Governor of New Jersey, is all that a nation could wish for the high and responsible position. Governor Marshall of Indiana is distinctively different in temperament, tho but little behind his chief in attainments.

Nearly everybody understands now why Champ Clark failed. The Courier said a few weeks ago that Bryan could not be nominated, but if he were nominated he could not win; yet no man could be named at Baltimore who could be elected without Bryan's assistance. It's what Bryan stands for, backed by the power of his logic, oratory and most of all, unassaillable constancy to his principles that con- with us to help. stitute his personal magnetism. editorially in part: "The first departure from this rational and harmonious programme must be laid at the door of the National Committee. That body, for reasons known only to itself, conceived the time propitious to nominate Judge Parker for the temporary chairmanship. The Democrat would be hard to find who, on hearing this news, did not understand, instinctively and nomination of Judge Parker threw down the gage before Mr. Jim's accomplishments. Bryan. When the time arrives to apportion the blame for the party's present situation, it must not be forgotten where the first offense was committed." And continueing: "The events that have succeeded are too immediate to need a fresh recital. It would be idle for the Republic to pretend to a colorless neutrality in view of what has taken against a leader who, in more than a quarter of a century of public service, has always fought on the side of the people and against the forces of syndicated greed." We have a splendid Houchin, it is conceded by all, would show a business administration second to none. The main thing for Democrats to look out for, is in their guess as to which will sure win when nominated.

The Huntsville Herald last week in its editorial endorsement of Jas. H. Whitecotten for Congress among other things says, That he will at all times fearlessly and with his usual courage work for the re-establishment in National legislation of that old but fundamental doctrine of equal rights to all and special this district is assured." Does the Herald mean by this that in which Mr. Whitecotten could do, he would refuse to ask for penagain "It was to his courageous action, while speaker, that bribery and corruption was exposed in our Legislative halls and bribe givers were driven therefrom." The Herald fails to say why the people of Monroe county or the voters down in that senatorial district didn't make Jim Senator. It would have extended his field without explanation, that the of usefulness, but evidently they over looked their interest or,

Salisbury Squibblings

Word comes from Roanoke of the sudden death of Wm. L. Thompson an old citizen of that place, well known here. He became overheated while hoeing potatoes, and died in a few moments. He left no wife, having been diivorced last fall, but several children and grandchildren. He was 85 years old and was buried at Roanoke. Sallie Kitchen, an old colored woman here, stepped on a rake tooth and severely injured her foot, but is now improving. Some of her friends think she is over a hundred years old, but as her youngest son is only 30 there must be some mistake.

A little son of Daniel Stengel fell from a hay loft, one day last week, and broke his arm near the wrist joint. The doctors fixed him up and he will get Keytesville, Mo. along all right.

W. B. Hurt 6 miles east of town received serious injuries from runaway team last week. He was on his way home from Clifton Hill, when the team took fright at an auto and ran away, throwing him out and dragging him for some distance. We hope he is not seriously hurt, as he is a good citizen and worthy man,
